

Although cloud ceilings lifted in the afternoon, winds were high. Aviation fuel was not available again today, thus precluding any chance of an aerial survey.