FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
March 3, 2016

MEDIA ADVISORY: Join us for the 2016 Southeast Alaska Regional Science Fair featuring Local High School Science Projects

On Saturday, the Alaska Fisheries Science Center-Auke Bay Lab will host the Southeast Alaska Regional Science Fair. The lab has been a strong supporter of the science fair, coordinating participation of scientists and fair judges, organizing fair logistics, and mentoring students who often go on to prestigious international science fairs after the regional fair.

The fair is one of two NOAA Fisheries events to be included in the White House Initiative, My Brother's Keeper, which brings students to Federal government research labs as part of National Lab Week, February 29-March 5. My Brother's Keeper is an initiative launched by President Obama to invest in the lives of our nation's young people.

WHAT: Open House

WHO: An opportunity to talk to the students and view their science projects.
