Introduction

Those working in the field of shellfish research have long recognized the need for a definitive collection of references on king crab (Lithodes and Paralithodes species of commercial importance) and tanner (the genus Chionoecetes) crab. Beginning with the description of Chionoecetes opilio by Fabricius in 1788 and including much of the 1976 literature, this bibliography covers nearly two centuries of crab research.

Credit for much of the early and current literature is due the Japanese and Soviet investigators who pioneered the field of crab research. Substantial contributions have also been made by American, Canadian, Chilean, and French investigators.

Source material for the bibliography are personal files, published and unpublished bibliographies, computer searches and personal communications. Many of the references are listed as furnished, and may not be entirely complete, accurate or in established format. We have not seen many of the documents.

This bibliography establishes the basis for a definitive collection of the literature available on king and tanner crab. It is our intention to update it periodically as additional and new leterature becomes available. We would appreciate being informed of any additions.

Organization

This bibliography contains 1208 references, grouped under king and tanner crab. The references are arranged alphabetically within each group and are numbered sequentially throughout the bibliography.

Entries are indexed according to taxonomy, subject and geographical area, based on the reference's title. Older taxonomic names are indexed under current names.

Acknowledgements

We wish to acknowledge the contributions of Guy C. Powell and William E. Donaldson of the Alaska Department of Fish and Game and J.C. Scriverner and T.H. Butler, whose "A Bibliography of Shrimps of the Family Pandalidae, Emphasizing Economically Important Species of the Genus Pandalus" provided the basis for the subject indexing.
